Floodwater on the east coast highway holds parcels two days

● NETWORK: AMBER

BEFORE DIWALI · 2 DAYS TO DHANTERAS · 4 DAYS TO DIWALI

For e-commerce, D2C and consumer-goods teams delivering orders and stocking shops through Diwali.

Two days before Dhanteras, floodwater ran across NH-16, the Chennai–Kolkata highway, in Bapatla on Tuesday evening, and police stopped vehicles there[1]. On NH-48 in Kolhapur, the cane growers who sat on the road at Kini say they'll spend Diwali there rather than back down[2]. And in Manipur, a shutdown is holding Imphal's trucks short of Kangpokpi. That's three trunk roads, mind you, each costing a day or more this week.

● AMBER something is slowing deliveries beyond normal peak
● RED deliveries largely stopped across a state or city, or a courier embargo on the route

Floodwater stops NH-16 at Bapatla, and Guntur's roads close behind it

South · Bapatla, Guntur and Prakasam on the Andhra coast

AMBER · HIGH COST OF DELAY · MEDIUM CONFIDENCE

About four feet of floodwater crossed NH-16 between Tatapadu and the Bollapalli toll plaza in Bapatla on Tuesday evening, and police stopped vehicles and diverted them[1,4]. Murasu itself was expected to weaken to a deep depression by midnight, but whether the stretch reopened overnight, no report says yet.

- NH-16 at Bapatla South · +2 days Police told drivers to put off their trips until the storm eases. I'd expect Chennai–Vijayawada trucks to take the detour or wait a day, and parcels for Bapatla to land two days late, around Friday.
- Guntur South · +1 day The Guntur–Amaravati road was shut at a flooded causeway near Lam, and police blocked the Kankaragunta underpass in the city[4]. I'd expect deliveries in Guntur to run a day late.
- Prakasam, around Ongole South · +2 days Thousands of trees came down, and the damage to power lines was worst in Prakasam and Bapatla[5]. I'd expect village deliveries off the highway to run two days late while the roads are cleared.

DECISIONS TO MAKE

For e-commerce and D2C teams

- Orders for Bapatla, Guntur and Prakasam pin codes are safer promised for Diwali than for Dhanteras, my estimate, since parcels on the coast road are held for Wednesday at least.

For FMCG and consumables distribution

- Top-ups for Guntur and Ongole shops are best on the road by Thu 5 Nov, my estimate, so they land by Saturday, ahead of the Diwali weekend.

What next: IMD expects heavy to very heavy rain at isolated places on the Andhra coast on Wednesday[5], so more water may yet reach the same stretches.

Cane growers vow to hold the Pune–Bengaluru highway through Diwali

West · NH-48 at the Kini toll plaza, Kolhapur district

AMBER

The sit-in at Kini brought traffic to a complete standstill on Tuesday, and police sent Pune traffic round via Waghwadi Phata[6]. Raju Shetti, the growers' leader, says they will celebrate Diwali on the highway rather than back down, after two rounds of talks failed. Whether trucks moved overnight, no report says yet. I'd expect loads between Pune and Belagavi to lose a day each way while it holds, through Sunday.

A shutdown in Kangpokpi holds Imphal's trucks on NH-2

Northeast · NH-2, the Dimapur–Imphal highway, at Senapati and Kangpokpi, Manipur

AMBER

A Kuki-Zo group's total shutdown over the killing of two young men has stranded more than 100 goods trucks bound for Imphal along NH-2[7]. It was extended by 48 hours on Monday evening, and the trucks are waiting in Senapati, IANS reports[8]. NH-2 is Imphal's main supply road, so I'd expect parcels into the Imphal valley to reach it two days late, around Friday.
